

SOUTH AFRICAN DEPARTMENT OF MINERALS AND ENERGY (DME)

DME is the South African government department responsible for ensuring exploration, development, processing, utilization and management of minerals and energy resources for the benefit of all in South Africa. South Africa is one of the world's great mining powerhouses. It dominates the world's production of platinum-group metals, chrome ore, ferrochromium, gold, vermiculite and vanadium. It is the fourth largest exporter of steam coal. Its reserves of manganese, chrome ore, platinum-group metals, gold and vanadium are, by far, the largest in the world. It ranks among leaders in diamond mining and mineral processing technology. Mining accounts for 29.3% of South Africa's exports, totalling US$16.0 billion in 2005. The industry employed 443,300 people in 2005. www.dme.gov.za

SOUTH AFRICAN MINING DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION (SAMDA)

SAMDA's vision is to be the vehicle for the development of a vibrant and sustainable junior mining sector which contributes towards the growth and prosperity of the mining industry. SAMDA creates an enabling environment for raising finance and skills development, lobbies government, organized labour, and other stakeholders and institutions, promotes international investment, beneficiation, alliances and facilitates the transformation of the mining industry by promoting emerging junior mining operations and those who are historically disadvantaged www.samda.co.za
